At Middleforth Church of England Primary the spiritual, moral and cultural dimension of life is expressed throughout the school and additionally as a church school through the Christian faith and through recognition of individuals’ spiritual nature. Pupils’ individual spiritual development is fostered throughout the curriculum. Religious Education and Collective Worship have a major contribution to this area of experience.

At Middleforth we define spirituality as:

“The holistic development of a pupils’ sense of worth of themselves, of others, and their unknown place in the world. This is achieved through an awareness of inner feelings, beliefs and experiences.”

Provision

The whole school staff takes responsibility for this area of experience and account for the spiritual in planning and policies. Spirituality permeates all areas of the curriculum. Opportunities need to be planned in, but will also occur spontaneously.

Current Practice

The spiritual curriculum is recognised in all areas of school life, particularly in:

- Collective Worship as a whole school or in classes;
- Prayer – collective and individual;
- Values and relationships;
- Whole school curriculum;
- Mission statement;

Aims of developing spirituality

- To encourage pupils to make informed decisions.

- To respect all, as modelled by staff in their relationships with others.
- To experience calm and tranquil moments which afford time for reflection, e.g. during worship, prayer spaces, outdoor prayer spaces or following inquiry.
- To work and live in harmony with others in the school "family".
- To have confidence to express opinion even if others do not agree.
- To learn to live with others and to develop an understanding of friendship and the school as a family;
- To reflect on the place and evidence of the Christian ethos in their own and others' lives;
